SUNDAY MORNING, JULY 13 1862

We call the especial attention of our readers to our rates of advertising as published this morning. They are now so plain in every particular that all can understand them, and none need be at a loss for a moment in regard to our priceseverything is stated explicitly, from one square up to one column, and from one, insertion up to one year. We have fixed the scale at the lowest possible rates, and we can in no instance deviate from it. We hope that the public, and business men especially, will give it a careful perusal, and at the same time extend to us a liberal share of their patronage.

Last night was set apart as the closing night of the Theatre, on which occasion manager Duffield had a benefit. We think the compliment paid him last night by the citizens of Nashville, (although he is an unassuming man,) should make him feel proud. Notwithstanding the expectation of the property of the proud. Notwithstanding the expectation of the property feel proud. Notwithstanding the excoedingly warm weather, the house was crowded-literally packed with youth and beauty. But peyer was a compliment more deserved-and we believe one never was more freely paid-for Mr. Durging has been unfiring in his endeavors to please during his short connection with the Theatre in this city; and last night's ovation prove that he has succeeded. We have not time nor space to speak of the performance. It is enough to say that it was all that the most fastidious could have desired.

We hope it will be but a short time before managers Sands & DUFFIELD will again throw open the doors of "Nashville Theatre" for a fall season. We would like to see all the members of the present company re-sugaged. The public have become accustomed to them, and we know they would be greeted back with a hearty welcome. There is, however, one attache whose services cannot be dispensed with -we allude to S. T. Smoss, the present Acting Buniness Manager. Everything would be incomplete without the jovial "phiz" (we had like to have said the handsome "phiz") of "Falstaff." We carnestly hope he may constitute part and parcel of the Theatre next season; but if he does not, wherever fate or fortune casts him, may he live long enough to be carried in a "buck-banket."

We are indebted to HASTINGS & MEN-DENHALL, Army Sutlers, on the Public Square, for a denm of excellent figs. They have a very choice and extensive

WILLIAM S. CHRATHAM,

Chairman of Police Committee. NEW YORK, July 10 .- A Richmond paper of the 3d of July reports Magroder's and Johnston's divisions frightfully cut up and the less of officers as very Among the latter are many of the best and brayest of the Southern army. It is confessed that the valor of our men defeated their plan, to capture Me-Clellan's entire force. The retreat was managed with consummate Judgment, and our position defended with such stubbornness as caused them very heavy

The number of our prisoners at Richmond is 4,500. Gen. McCall is at the Spottswood House. Nothing is said about his being wounded.

It is proposed to put our men on an island in the James river rapids where a large guard will be unnecessary. The rebel army is in danger of complete demoralization. The paper says when whole divisions turn their backs upon the fee the safety of the army is mperilled

The same paper suggests the parceling ont of prisoners among the plantations to work in the place of negroes who have been stolen or run away. 4 MM

C. J. WALLACE, Surgeon,

General Hospital. The Canonization of the Japanese Martyrs. Correspondence of the London Lines.

Rome, June 8. The glorious sun of Italy was rising over this city of the dead when I drove down to St. Peter's this morning. Capola after cupola caught its early beams, and the Castle of St. Angelo glittered as if made of burnished gold. Pedestrians and equipages were even then hurrying down to St. Peter's, and many persons were hanging about the bridge, as usual on such occasions, to take note of the great or the beautiful. Cardinals' carriages are just having their hammercloths put on; for their Eminenced are not so early as their humbler disciples, and will come down later in all the gorgeousness. which should distinguish true Christian fishermen. What is the motive of all this preparation? Seven-and-twenty Chrisian martyrs, at all events so called, are to be canonized to-day, and the true be lievers are to be enriched with as many additional advocates at the Throne of Grace. Crucified near Nagasaki on the 5th of February, 1597, they were beatified on the 3d of January, 1857, and permission given for canonization at the same time. How it is that these distinguished martyrs have been overlooked for upwards of 200 years, while others of less merit have been canonized, it is not for me to explain. I have only to note facts.

PREPARATIONS BEFORE THE CEREMONY. About 7 o'clock the extra-privileged people begin to enter, but are almost lost n the vast multitude which overflows St. Peter's. There are the Austrian and Spanish, and Portuguese and French, and other Ministers, and the Marquis Lavalette who comes late, is well received by his colleagues, who rise to greet him. There are, too, the smaller fry of Consuls, and I see the British uniform among them. Between 20 and 30 are assembled in the diplomatic box, covered with gold and silver, to do honor to the Japanese Martyrs. A flourish of trumpets announces the arrival of royal personages, and the could make out, Francisco, for he has been indisposed of late, but the pretty ex-Queen and her brothers and sisters. If there were other royal personages I could not distinguish them.

And now is the time to light up the from without, the walls had the appearance of being inlaid with bright mosaics. while the smoke of the candles and of the incense gave the interior the appearance of the vast theatre in a thick London fogg. The lighting up was a decided mistake, and the less said about it the better. In the recesses near the transepts were fire engines and Pomieri; for consideable apprehensions of danger were entertained, and great precautions were taken, but nothing unpleasant hap-pened except showers of wax, which bespattered many a uniform; and the occasional flaring up of a candle, which one of the samphire boys, to our horror, was always let down to extinguished. enough of details, for now the procession from the Vatican enters the church.

THE PROCESSION AND LE SAINT PERE. St. Michael and of the Orphans, 18 orders of monks, the cross of the secular clergy, and the pupils of the Ruman College, the parish priests and the perpetual vicars in their white stoles, the canons of the collegiate churches, of the minor and the patriarchal Basiliche, the clergy of 18 other churches with crosses, insignia, bells, and anopies. Members of the Tribunal folow with the congregation of the Sacred Rites and the standards of the Beati. Then come the officers of the Papai chapel, a tedious list, and the singers chanting Ave Maris Siella;" a number of other officers succeeded these, and then we see Vatican, mitred abbots, petriarchs, arch-Aaron Shaver, Capt. J. H. Green, co. F. bishops and bishops wearing mitres of white cloth, while the Cardinals follow J. M. Hazlewood, Capt. H. L. Williams, in their sacred robes, wearing mitres of white damask. Nearly 400 mitres were here assembled, a sight which the world has not seen for centuries, and perhaps borne into the church magnificently attired, having two large tans or flags of will be saved. feathers at his side, and holding a wax possible to give you an adequate idea of and men as great. the feeling which his appearance awakened among men who had come from all parts of the world to see the representative of St. Peter, the depositary of the they regard him, about whom they had read and talked, and for whom they had prayed since they were children no higher than the knee. "Le Saint Pere! Le Saint Pere!" exclaimed the French priests. "Il Santo Padre!" cried the Itallans; and Germans, Spaniards, Greeks, Americans, and English all manifested the same zeal, each in his different tongue. Looking over the sea of heads which intervened between me and the procession-a great interval-all were on their knees as Pius IX, the benevolent and the good, for it is only just to say so, was 38th Indiana

James F. Shannon, Capt. Jameson, co. H. Vactican chanted with their unearthly voices "Tu es Patrus," and the voices, not James Myers, Capt. Jamesen, co. H, 21st so much softened as rendered more meagre by the distance, glided like ghosts through the building. At times another body of men chanted "Ave Marie Stella, and it was thus that the Pope was borns through fifty thousand worshippers from Georga Phillips, Capt. Williams, co. I, every county under the sun to the high Bith Indians.

Patrick Brogan, Capt. McGovern, co. C., where he descended from his seat, and after praying, was again carried forwards | the Senate as a Brigadier General. The red abbotts and a few others, among whom is named the Archimandrite of Messina, "if he be there," adds the directions the foot. This seen it was impossible to witness, for, besides that my lorgnette is not Irish and does not look around corners, the great distance that intervened put it beyond all ordinary And now began what I must needs call, according to my own views, but with all respect for those of others; the great imposition of the Cardinal Procurator, approaching the Pope, demands that the leaf may be enrolled in the catalogue of the Saints. His Holiness replies that in an affair of so much importance he must have the prayer of the Church for Divine assistance in coming to a decision on a subject, which, by the way, had been decided some centuries

Then the Papal singers chanted Kyrie Eleison and the words were taken up and passed from wave of this vast sea, and the Litany of the saints was sung by thousands and thousands, producing such a body of sound as I never heard before, and electrifying every one who had the slightest feeling. This terminated, the Cardinal Procurator again advanced and renewed his demand for the canonization instanter of instanting. The Pope still hesitates, though some 50,000 or 80,000 crowns have been spent on the ceremony, and begs the ferrid prayers of the assembly that he may have the light and assistance of the holy spirit in so important a determination. Prayers were offered, and then the Veni Creator Spirifus was intoned and chanted by the vast multitude. So touching are the tones, and so softly yet so mightily they swelled and swelled as they were borne from nave to alsle and transept, that the effect was overwhelming, and I found my self clinging hard to my seat and almost suffo ated with emotion. Heft reason at the door, for how could reason assert her dominion in such scenes as these? Archbishop Whiley would have burnt his logic had he been here, and like myself, have submitted himself to that tide of feeling which bore me on irresistibly. To return, however, to the great object of the day, this last effort has been success-

The Cardinal makes a third and final application, in the words instanter, instantius, et instantissime, as if irritated with the Pope or the Holy Spirit; and then His Holiness replies that assisted Bourbon family enter-not, as far as I "by a ray of Divine light he had determined on enrolling the Beati in the calalogue of Saints," and pronunces in a few moments Deceroissus. The intelligence is communicated to the world by the firing of cannon from St. Angelo and the ringing all the belis in the city, and the fifteen thousand candles, each weighing learning for pounds, as I am told. The windows are closely curtained, though a ray of multitude joins. It was one of this finight does now and then break in, for est things of wonderful eveloriastical light will penetrat into the thickest dark-ness, and men tied on a small plank are with gratitude and joy did this grand let down from the roof to light the can-dles round the architraves; and what a dizzy light It is! They look like crows or "samphire gatherers" on the cliffs of Dover, and no bigger than your head, and they are drawn up and down several of St. Peter, and to assist at this grand hundred feet above us. One heaves a ceremony, gave it an impressiveness freer breath as they are hauled up. As which it perhaps had never had before, for the candelabara and the lower lights, and never will have again. There is little they require a strong head too; and now | more to be said of the ceremonies of the the great spectacle is prepared. Yet the day. High mass was sung by the Pope, effect is not brilliant; so vast are propro- at least he appeared on the altar of the tions of the church that is in compara- Istraitus, and oblations were made to tive darkness, as if stars of the fourth bim for the new Saints of doves and magnitude were glittering faintly. Seen small birds and painted wax-lights, arabesqued with silver and gold, bearing the effects of the Saints and the arms of His Holiness.

The World says: We give an interesting statement made by a Union man who has just reached this city from Atlanta, Ga., respecting the position of affairs at South. From the gentleman's account (we can wouch for "te being toustworthy), it appears, first, that had the recent contest before Richmond terminated in a Confederate defeat, the rebellion would have been ended, as the spirit of the South was almost utterly broken by the series of robel defeats. Second. that the rebel army at Richmond, pre-There are the alumni of the Hospice of vious to the late battle, was undoubtedly over 200,000 strong. Fully half of Beauregard's army passed through Atlanta, bound for Richmond, to this gentleman's knowledge. Third, that a comparatively small quantity of cotton has been destroyed at the South, as the planters do all they can to save and not destroy their property. There will be an abundance, therefore, for the needs of commerce, whenever the rebellion is ended. Fourth, that the wheat and eat crop at the South is an utter failure, and if the corn should also fail, famine, as well as the other horrors of war, will be the fate of the South. New York, July 10 .- A robel dispatch says the British steamer Modern Greece, going into Wilmington, N. C., on the 27th was run aground near Fort Fisher by the blockading fices, who hauled off on the opening of the fort on them.
